Boston bombs: Tsarnaev brothers 'planned more attacks'

The brothers suspected of bombing the Boston Marathon were probably planning further attacks, the city's police commissioner has said. Ed Davis told CBS News that Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev had been carrying homemade bombs and grenades which they threw at police when cornered. A top US interrogation group is waiting to question Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, who is in a serious condition in hospital. His elder brother died during a gunfight with police on Thursday night. ## Tsarnaev brothers' path to extremism may have begun online

The two brothers suspected of the Boston bombings, Chechens who grew up in America, fit the profile of a new generation of jihadists who are radicalized online and strike in their home countries. The Tsarnaev brothers, ethnic Chechen Muslims, arrived as refugees in Cambridge, near Boston, with their families around a decade ago, according to family members. Dzhokhar would have only been about 10 years old. Analysts said the brothers' turn to extremism seemed to have been stoked, not by the years of unrest in their native North Caucasus region of Russia, but on the Internet. Read more

Obama Ricin Letter Arrest Made: FBI

An arrest has been made in the case of ricin-laced letters being sent to the President Barack Obama and to Sen. Roger Wicker (R-Miss.). The suspect was identified as Kenneth Curtis of Tupelo, Miss. Read more

Singapore hit by bomb hoaxes

A 34-year-old man has been arrested in Singapore over an online threat to bomb several locations in the city-state in the aftermath of the Boston Marathon attack, police said. The man, whose name and nationality were not disclosed, was arrested after posting the threat as a comment on a news article about the deadly bombings in Boston, police said in a statement. ## New explosives vapor detection technology

Novel explosives detection method focuses on direct, real-time vapor detection rather than collection of explosives particles. It could change paradigm for explosives screening. A quick, accurate, and highly sensitive process reliably to detect minute traces of explosives on luggage, cargo, or travelling passengers has been demonstrated by scientists at the Department of Energy's Pacific Northwest National Laboratory (PNNL). Read more

New York's JFK airport terminal briefly evacuated over package

Authorities temporarily evacuated a terminal at John F. Kennedy International Airport on Sunday to investigate a suspicious package, which turned out to be a tube of toothpaste wrapped in duct tape, officials said. The package was found in the baggage room area in Terminal 4, said the spokesman for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. Read more

Israel's air force developing drones to replace aircraft

Israel's air force is on track to developing drones that within four to five decades would carry out nearly every battlefield operation executed today by piloted aircraft, said a high-ranking Israeli officer. "There is a process happening now of transferring tasks from manned to unmanned vehicles," the officer said, speaking anonymously because of the classified nature of his work. "This trend will continue to become stronger." Read more

Southeast Asian leaders aim to patch maritime rifts

Southeast Asian leaders will focus on rebuilding unity when they meet in Brunei this week after unprecedented rifts over how to handle territorial disputes with an assertive China. The summit of the 10-member Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) convenes against the backdrop of China's increasingly aggressive stance in claiming sovereignty over nearly all of the resource-rich South China Sea. ## Maritime security necessary for Tanzania's prosperity

The sea is a formidable asset for Tanzania. Worldwide, 80 per cent of international trade relies on maritime transport. Threats to maritime security come in many ways and forms, but in the past years the threat of piracy has been a particular concern in the Gulf of Aden and the Western Indian Ocean. Attacks on vessels by Somali pirates became a serious matter in 2008 when there were 24 attacks on merchant vessels – with fourteen successfully hijacked for ransom. Read more
