Pearson airport security breach grounds flights

A security issue at Toronto's Pearson airport grounded international flights. The incident happened in Terminal 1 where international flights and flights to the U.S. depart. Peel police were called to the scene after a pocket knife was discovered in a passenger's carry-on luggage on board a plane. "The laws in the U.S. have changed to allow pocket knives on planes," said Peel Police Constable Thomas Rattan. "However they are not allowed on Canadian planes."

G8 summit: Airport security stepped up ahead of meeting

The Police Service of Northern Ireland has warned of potential disruption in and around Belfast International Airport due to the G8 summit. World leaders will fly into the airport and travel on to their meeting at the Lough Erne Resort in Enniskillen, County Fermanagh, on 17 and 18 June. It will be attended by eight heads of state. ## New airport security program to ease access for travelers

Airport security officials have put a program in place to make people smile instead of scream when going through checkpoints. The TSA has trained some employees to act as Passenger Support Specialists to help anyone through the process, but especially the disabled, those with medical issues or people traveling with small children. ## A more powerful terahertz imaging system developed

Low-energy terahertz radiation could potentially enable doctors to see deep into tissues without the damaging effects of X-rays, or allow security guards to identify chemicals in a package without opening it. It has been difficult, however, for engineers to make powerful enough systems to accomplish these promising applications. A University of Michigan release reports that now an electrical engineering research team at the University of Michigan has developed a laser-powered terahertz source and detector system which transmits with fifty times more power and receives with thirty times more sensitivity than existing technologies. ## North Korea preparing nuclear test, South Korea says

North Korea may be preparing for a fourth nuclear test, South Korean officials say. South Korean Unification Minister Ryo Kihl-jae told lawmakers there are "signs" of increased activity in the North's main nuclear test site. A newspaper also quoted a South Korean official confirming activity similar to the North's third test on 12 February. North Korea has stepped up its rhetoric in recent weeks, threatening to attack US and South Korean targets. Read more

Terrorists planning Somali attacks, government warns

Terrorists are in the final stages of planning attacks in the Somali capital, Mogadishu, the British government has warned. Concerns about a possible attack were highlighted in a statement issued by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO), which already advises against all travel to Somalia. Read more

TERRORISM: Aaron Yoon currently jailed on terrorism-related charges

A Canadian currently incarcerated for terrorism-related charges in the west African country of Mauritania has a strong connection to Chatham. Aaron Yoon, accused of having ties to the terrorist group al Qaida, attended St. Ursula Catholic School from Grade 1 to 8 from the mid 1990s to early 2000. A retired teacher recalled Yoon being a happy-go-lucky kind of student in the classroom while his teacher at the Chatham elementary school. Read more

Army foils Chouf arms smuggling plot, gunman killed.

The Army announced Sunday that it had foiled over the weekend an arms smuggling plot by a group of gunmen in the Chouf region who had planned to hand the weapons to "extremist groups." The Army operation led to a shootout with the gunmen, resulting in the death of one man and the wounding of a soldier, in the latest cross-border security incident to erupt in the past week.
