Programme Snapshot:

The 5 day course will cover the following modules:

1. Introduction to CIP
2. Assessing Risk - Security Risk Assessment concept
3. Managing Risks - Considerations for protection of Buildings
4. Managing Risks - Security Considerations for People
5. Managing Risks - Security Considerations for Vehicles
6. Security Quality Control Measures
7. Facility Protection Planning Exercise
8. Self-Empowerment

Who attends?

This workshop is relevant to security officers involved in the planning, implementation and maintenance of protective security measures for critical and 'attractive' installations such as airports, oil and gas, hotels, government facilities, military facilities, ports etc.

Why attend?

1. Participants will be able to conduct a security risk assessment using International Models
2. Participants will be able to implement a security plan for a critical facility based on the findings of the risk assessments.

The objective of CIP is to provide participants with the fundamentals related to security planning and implementation considerations for critical facilities and to effectively manage the implementation through the development of self-empowerment skills of their security officers.

Topics covered in the Training:

1. Concept of assessing risks
2. Managing identified risks through security countermeasures
3. Implementing a good Security Quality Control system
4. Planning and Implementing a Facility Protection Plan
5. Empowering the people who will execute the Security Plan
6. Intelligence and Surveillance
7. Counter-Terrorism
8. Cyber - crime
9. CBRNE

Participants will not only be taught the fundamentals but will also be provided with a number of 'Hands-on' practical field exercises during the workshop, one of which will be a security planning exercise for the hotel where the workshop will be held. The workshop will be conducted by two of the most qualified practitioners in the region who will share their experiences and knowledge in this field.

San Francisco airport runway open again

The runway at San Francisco international airport, which was damaged by the Asiana Airlines plane crash last Saturday, is open again. The airport has resumed normal service after six days of delayed and canceled flights. Three Chinese teenagers were killed and more than 180 people were injured. Read more

Boeing 787 Dreamliner blaze at Heathrow revives safety concerns

Fears over the safety of the world's newest passenger plane have been raised further after a Boeing 787 Dreamliner operated by Ethiopian Airlines caught fire at Heathrow airport – and another 787 carrying British holidaymakers to Florida returned home after a technical fault. Read more

Airport security upgrade after vandal attack

Engineers are still undertaking the painstaking task of examining dozens of planes for any signs of damage, after a vandal attack at a Hunter Valley airport two weeks ago. Police have now charged two people over the incident earlier this month at the Rutherford Aerodrome, which included damage to a plane owned by elite racer. Read more

US, Israel hold joint airport security exercise

As part of the cooperation between Israel and the US in the field of civilian air flight, a joint exercise in security was held this week. The exercise took place simultaneously in both countries and involved security officials from both. Read more

$500,000 jet flight booked via iPhone app

Private jet booking service PrivateFly.com announces biggest ever sale via iPhone for flight between Saudi Arabia and Europe. The booking, made by a family office in Saudi Arabia, was for a multi-leg business trip to Europe, who hired a Boeing Business Jet for the trip. Read more

Inflight calls, Internet now on PAL flights

Passengers of Philippine Airlines can now make phone calls and browse the internet while inflight with the installation of OnAir cutting-edge connectivity equipment on PAL's long-range aircraft. Read more

TSA To Use Electronic 'Randomizers' To Create Security Lines

Gone are the days of strategically choosing a security line at the airport. TSA is now planning to use electronic 'randomizers' to randomly route passengers to a conveyor belt. Aside from the obvious motive of creating a bias-free way of assigning passengers to lines, the randomizer would eliminate the option for potential terrorists to choose which line to go through. ## Nail bomb explodes at West Midlands mosque hour after Lee Rigby funeral

A loud bang was heard by residents of the West Midlands Town of Tipton near the Kanz-ul-Iman Muslim Welfare Association Central Jamia mosque. Nails were found at the scene and the incident happened an hour after the funeral of murdered soldier Lee Rigby, and the suspects in the case are believed to be Islamic extremists. Read more

Terrorists utilize the Internet to spread hate, recruit

Terror fugitive Santoso's recent video, posted on YouTube on Sunday, illustrates the contemporary methods used by terrorist cells to employ cyberspace - and social networking in particular - to incite hate. The six-minute video was viewed thousands of times before it was taken down, four days after it was uploaded. Read more

Some radicals make heroes of Tsarnaev brothers

The suspects in the Boston Marathon bombings, Tamerlan and Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, are alleged to have committed despicable acts of terror that shut down a city and horrified a nation. But in the dark recesses of radical Islamic websites around the world they are being lionized in a propoganda campaign designed to recruit more home-grown militants. Read more

Snowden emerges from airport hideout, seeks temporary asylum

Edward Snowden emerged from his airport hideaway Friday, telling rights groups that he wants temporary asylum in Russia but still hopes to travel to Latin America to avoid prosecution by U.S. authorities. It was the world's first glimpse of self-declared leaker, who has been holed up in the transit zone of Sheremetyevo Airport since June 23. Read more
