Airlines see no lag in meeting new EU cargo security norms deadline

Airlines will have to comply with the European Union (EU)'s new norms for air cargo security by July 1 or face a ban at the region's airports. Airlines will now have to ensure cargo bound for the region is screened or comes from a secure supply chain. Airlines, including European ones, will need a security verification certificate for cargo operations at an airport outside the region. The International Air Cargo Association has warned of implementation challenges, though airports and cargo operators in India are confident of meeting the deadline. Read more

Potential Explosive Device Found at Anchorage International Airport

Airport manager John Parrott says the screening area has been shut down until an explosive Ordinance Disposal (EOD) team arrives. FBI have also been called in to interview the passenger whose bag contains the device. "We're taking every step to ensure everyone's safety, working with Alaska Airlines and others," says Parrott. ## Ga. debates leniency over guns brought to airport

Now gun-friendly lawmakers in Georgia want people licensed to carry a gun to avoid arrest if they accidentally bring their firearms into the security checkpoint at the country's busiest airport and willingly leave the security line. It comes as gun rights groups in Georgia push state lawmakers to broaden the places where people can legally take guns, including churches and bars. Read more

Vehicle hits pillar at Changi Airport T2, partial transit hall temporarily closed

A part of the transit hall of Changi Airport Terminal 2 was closed on Thursday afternoon after an aircraft-towing vehicle hit a pillar located on the airside apron of the terminal where the aircrafts are parked. The driver of the vehicle sustained minor injuries and received treatment at the airport clinic. No other personnel were affected and flight operations were still going on as per normal. ## Changi Airport to introduce self-boarding gates from April 2014

Passengers at Changi Airport will soon be able to board their flights faster, with the introduction of self-boarding gates. From April 2014, the gates will be progressively introduced in common gatehold rooms in all three terminals. The Changi Airport Group (CAG) has been conducting trials of the self-boarding gates at a common gatehold room in Terminal 2 since May. The trials are being done with German airlines Lufthansa. With the new gates, passengers only need to scan their boarding passes using barcode readers before they proceed to board their flights. Read more

Singapore Airshow: Why companies showcase test planes

You would think that when an aeroplane maker decided to put its latest aircraft on public display for the first time at an airshow, it would do so with a passenger cabin that is decked to impress. However, Airbus has taken a different approach with the A350 - its latest extra wide-bodied plane - which it is showcasing for the first time at the Singapore Airshow.

Singapore Airlines' cabin crew delight travelers in Changi Airport choir performance

Love was literally in the air. Travelers at Changi Airport were treated to a heart-warming pre-Valentine's Day treat as they were serenaded by over 22 members of Singapore Airlines' cabin crew. Dressed in their iconic kebayas, Singapore Girls and stewards snapped their fingers as they sang Billy Joel's classic, "For the longest time", at Terminal 3. Others also gave out batik roses and chocolates to those smitten travelers. Read more

Chinese police shoot dead 'terrorists' in Xinjiang, says state media

Chinese authorities have shot dead "several terrorists" in Xinjiang in the latest violent incident in the restive western region which is home to mostly Muslim Uighurs, state media has said. "Several terrorists were shot dead by police during a terrorist attack on Friday afternoon," said the Xinhua news agency. Read more

Syria security risk a big problem for UK - Brokenshire

The "security concern" for the UK posed by individuals who have trained and fought in Syria is "a big problem" for MI5 and the police, the immigration minister has said. James Brokenshire told the BBC "a significant and growing proportion" of their resources was spent on the issue. Read more

NATO, Russia say device used to scan crowds for explosives near completion

NATO and Russia had achieved the ability to target and locate bombs planted in large crowds, such as commuter hubs and sporting events. The Stand-off Detection of Explosives and Suicide Bombers system (STANDEX) "could help NATO allies and Russia prevent terrorist attacks such as those carried out on the public transport systems in London, Madrid and Moscow" in the past decade, NATO said in a video news release that included Russian partners.
