Los Angeles airport gun suspect charged with murder

The man suspected of carrying out Friday's gun attack at Los Angeles Airport has been charged with murder. Prosecutors say the death penalty could be sought if 23-year-old Paul Anthony Ciancia is convicted. He is in hospital after being shot by police. A federal US security agent was killed and others wounded in the attack. Police are attempting to establish a motive for the assault. Read more

Singapore Seletar Airport website hacked

The website of Seletar Airport has become the latest to be hit by hackers - the second in three days. At around 12.30pm on Sunday, the site showed a black and green background with an image in the middle resembling a skull wearing a hood. It was back running less than 30 minutes later. On Friday, The Straits Times' website was hacked by someone claiming to be from the hacking collective, Anonymous. Read more

US aviation authority ends ban on use of electronic devices during flight

The US Federal Aviation Administration has ended a long-standing ban on using portable electronic devices on planes. Passengers will now be able to use smart phones and tablets in airplane mode to play games and read downloaded materials like e-books and calendars during all phases of flight, including takeoff and landing. Hong Kong Airlines' 'deviations' a concern, says transport chief Anthony Cheung

Hong Kong Airlines has been told to improve its practices after seven incidents where pilots "deviated from regulations", with one ignoring an instruction from air traffic control not to climb to an altitude where there was other aircraft. Secretary for Transport and Housing Professor Anthony Cheung Bing-leung has expressed concern over the disclosures, saying that "even one incident is too many". Read more

Singapore boosts cyber defences

The Singapore government said Monday it was on "heightened vigilance" following threats from the activist hackers' group Anonymous, but denied that any of its websites had already been compromised. The statement by the Infocomm Development Authority (IDA) came as Singapore's biggest publisher confirmed users were having difficulty accessing some of its online sites, although no group has claimed responsibility for the incidents. Terror Hunt: Suspect 'Linked To Al Shabaab'

A terror suspect who escaped surveillance by changing into a burka on a visit to a mosque has connections to the al Qaeda-linked al Shabaab Islamist group in Somalia, according to Sky sources. Mohammed Ahmed Mohamed, who is 5ft 8in tall and of medium build and was last seen at a west London mosque on Friday afternoon, is being hunted by counter-terrorism officers. Read more

Big Brother blinded: Security fears in China as smog disrupts surveillance cameras

To the central government, the smog that blankets the country is not just a health hazard, it's a threat to national security. Last month visibility in Harbin dropped to below three metres because of heavy smog. On days like these, no surveillance camera can see through the thick layers of particles, say scientists and engineers. To the authorities, this is a serious national security concern. Beijing has invested heavily to build up a nationwide surveillance network that lets police watch every major street and corner in main cities. Read more

China security chief blames Uighur Islamists for Tiananmen attack

China's domestic security chief believes a fatal vehicle crash in Beijing's Tiananmen Square in which five died was planned by a Muslim Uighur separatist group, designated a terrorist organization by the United States and United Nations. Meng Jianzhu, a member of the 25-member Politburo responsible for domestic security, said the East Turkestan Islamic Movement was behind the attack. This is the first time Beijing has accused the group of carrying out the attack. Read more

Japan, Russia discuss bilateral security cooperation

Japanese and Russian Foreign and Defense Ministers have met for the first time to discuss bilateral security cooperation in Tokyo. The two sides agreed to step up cooperation. They say their defense ties are geared toward peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region and will not affect existing alliances. The ministers agreed Russia's navy and Japan's Maritime Self-Defense Force would take part in a joint anti-piracy and anti-terrorism training, enhancing the disaster search and rescue training that the two nations have been conducting since 1998. Security staff jailed after people smuggling operation uncovered at Birmingham Airport

Two airline security guards have been jailed after plotting with nine others to smuggle illegal immigrants out of Birmingham Airport to Canada using false passports. Six more members of the gang were jailed and three given suspended sentences for what a judge described as a "sophisticated and pre-planned" plot to bypass airport security that was introduced after the 9/11 terror attacks in 2001. Three immigrants who were already in the UK illegally, managed to evade security controls on two occasions in August 2010 and went on to claim asylum in Canada using bogus passports. Read more
