Knife found hidden in flower stems by TSA agent at Sea-Tac Airport

Try to sneak a knife in a bouquet of flowers at Sea-Tac and it's trouble for you! A TSA agent at Sea-Tac Airport discovered a knife hidden inside a bouquet of flowers during a routine screening of carry-on luggage on July 23. That's a no-no. "Knives of any type or size, hidden or not, aren't allowed through the security checkpoint," tweeted Lorie Dankers, spokesperson for TSA.

Dem Candidates Sanders, Castro to Speak at Radical Islamist Convention

Democratic presidential candidates Bernie Sanders and Julian Castro have agreed to speak at the convention of a radical Islamist group with ties to the Muslim Brotherhood and hostility towards progressive Muslims and values. Sanders and Castro will participate in a "presidential forum" held by the Islamic Society of North America (ISNA) during its convention in Houston August 31, 2019. ISNA says it is inviting other Democratic presidential candidates and President Donald Trump to address its audience. The U.S. Justice Department lists ISNA as an "entity" of the Muslim Brotherhood, a radical and often violent arm of the Islamist global political project. The Brotherhood's goal is a worldwide caliphate with all of humanity living under sharia law. The Trump administration announced three months ago that it was considering designating the Brotherhood as a domestic terrorist organization.

Understanding El Paso

In the aftermath of the El Paso shooting, there has been a fresh outcry against white supremacy. The shooter appears to have posted a manifesto online explaining in detail his motives for the attack and the racist ideology behind it. Liberals, like Presidential Candidate Beto O'Rourke, who represented El Paso as a congressman, have already used the horrific shooting to accuse President Donald Trump of encouraging the white supremacist ideology by stating their mantra "[Trump] is a racist and stokes racism." Other Democratic candidates have made similar comments about the El Paso shootings, saying that Trump's push to build a wall on the U.S. border with Mexico demonizes immigrants in the eyes of Americans. Conservatives argue the opposite. They point to the reasons that Trump himself says about why he wants to build a wall: to stop the powerful Mexican drug cartels from using the porous border to push their poison and human trafficking into America. Today, virtually anyone trying to cross the border for whatever reasons must pay off and be "accepted" by the cartels or risk being murder by them.

US Showdown With Turkey to Prevent Slaughter of Christians, Kurds

The U.S. is engaged in a showdown with Turkey over Turkish President Recip Erdogan's threats to "eliminate" America's Kurdish and Christian allies in northeast Syria. Erdogan says he will invade northeast Turkey "very soon" to "eliminate all threats to its national security," a commonly used euphemism by the Islamist president against the Kurds and other minority groups which comprise the Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF). Erdogan views the SDF — America's allies who eliminated ISIS — as a threat to Turkey due to the Kurd's aspirations for sovereignty. An attack would also threaten the safety of U.S. forces working with the SDF in the area. It would also mean that the Kurds would not have the capacity to guard the 15,000 foreign ISIS fighters they have captured, as every soldier would be needed for the fight against Turkey.

New American Islamic Seminary Trains Scholars in Extremism

This new American Islamic seminary targets young people to turn them into scholars steeped in extremism. Read Clarion's Intelligence Network's latest expose about U.S.-based supporters of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Hezbollah and Shiite extremism. The Al Mahdi Islamic Seminary is a brand-new online Shiite school in the United States with ties to Islamic extremists. Launched in May of 2019, Al Mahdi's target demographic is American Muslims, who it seeks to turn into "credible" and "pious" scholars. Its mission isn't the issue, though. Instead, it is who is helping to fulfill it, like Sheikh Hamza Sodagar, who has openly expressed his support for the Iranian regime and its proxy terror group in Lebanon, Hezbollah.

Unexploded firebomb discovered in Thai capital

Thai authorities recovered an unexploded firebomb at a market in central Bangkok on Wednesday (Aug 7) in what they said was a device left over from coordinated attacks last week that wounded four people. Six small bombs and six fire-bombs went off in the Thai capital last Friday as the city hosted a meeting of Southeast Asian foreign ministers that was also attended by top diplomats from the United States, China, and other world powers.

British Airways flight evacuated after smoke fills cabin

A British Airways flight was evacuated at Spain's Valencia Airport on Monday (Aug 5) after smoke filled the cabin. Passenger Gayle Fitzpatrick posted a video of the incident on Twitter, saying: "Our cabin filled with smoke in the last 10 minutes of flight, had to disembark via emergency chutes." Another passenger, Rachel Jupp, told BBC News that there was no official announcement about what was happening as smoke filled the cabin. "You couldn't see the passengers two seats down from you," she said. Ms Jupp, who was travelling with her children, said she heard calls to "get down" so that they can breathe the cleaner air near the floor as the Airbus A321 aircraft began its descent. It took cabin crew a few minutes after landing to open the emergency exits, she added. Passengers then went down the emergency chutes and were told to get as far away from the plane as possible.
