South Korean man who attempted to open plane door mid-flight tests positive for drugs

A 19-year-old Korean man who tried to open a plane door mid-flight tested positive for drugs following an investigation by the Incheon Airport police. Police told CNN they conducted a simple drug test with the consent of the man after his "abnormal behavior." The man spoke incoherently to media when he was heading to attend his arrest warrant hearing on Tuesday, June 20. "I felt I was being attacked," he said to reporters who asked why he attempted to open the plane's door. The passenger was on a red-eye flight from Cebu in the Philippines to Seoul, South Korea, when he began "acting strangely" about an hour into the flight. As a result, he was moved to the front row of the plane close to the exit door where staff could monitor him, officials from Jeju Airlines said. He also complained that he felt "pressure" on his chest, the airline said.

Birmingham Airport to transform passenger security experience with new CT screening technology

Smiths Detection, a global leader in threat detection and security screening technologies, has announced that it has been selected to supply fully integrated checkpoints throughout Birmingham Airport as part of its £20 million security screening upgrade. The new security checkpoints will feature Smiths Detection's HI-SCAN 6040 CTiX, a computed tomography (CT) X-ray scanner, which produces high-resolution volumetric 3D images for quicker and deeper baggage assessment and low false-alarm rates. Implementation of the new scanner will allow passengers to leave their liquids and electronics in their hand luggage, which in turn will help to speed up security screening, while ensuring that safety is not compromised. The HI-SCAN 6040 CTiX is ECAC EDS CB C3 and TSA Certified. Other new solutions to be supplied to Birmingham Airport include the iLane, an automatic tray return system and additional X-ray systems which will also be deployed at staff and visitor checkpoints.
